Reflection

The Lord heals us so that, in humility, we can bow before him and offer him worship. In the constant complexity of life, we see that humanity thirsts for something more than the world can offer. In the first reading from the Book of Job, Job states that man’s life is a drudgery and nothing more than months of misery. Job’s sentiment in the first reading summarizes the dramatic situation man has experienced since the Fall. In the beginning, humanity was created to share in the divine happiness of God, and God has given us everything that we need to share in His eternal blessedness

Stewardship

God wanted to share his divine life with us from the beginning of creation, and in return, we are called to give him worship and thank him for imparting his image and likeness. Unfortunately, the fall of Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden brought illness upon each of us. However, we are not alone in our illness; the Lord is at the foot of our beds, fervently seeking to grasp our hands and offer us healing.
